SUNDAY EDITION

The Buenos Aires papers inform us that the Legislature of the Province of Buenos Aires, in discussing a bill for the reorganization of the Provincial the reorganization of the Provincial Blank have passed a clause disqualifying foreigners who have not been naturalized from taking a seat at the Board of Directors. This clause, it appears, after considerable discussion, was passed at the chief instigation of Dr. Gonnet, Minister of Public Works for the Province.

Commenting on this, the B. A. Herald monstrous persecution, not because he nistor of Public Works for the Province.

Commenting on this, the B. A. Heralit of the 4th instant has a powerful article from which we quote the following lines,—

The argument, made by Dr. Gonnet is same in the extreme, utterly devoid of logic or liberalism, is hide-bound profile in the stream, altogether historically innacurate, altogether historica says on the subject, we cannot but look dagrant abuses of their departments. on the passing of this clause as a mischievous example of native conservatism of the worst type, and one likely to bear fruit beyond the limits of the Province chiefly concerned. It is an unfortunate cropping up of that old spirit of intolerant fear and distrust of «foreigners» that has acted so prejudicially on the River Plate, and that we had hoped was dying out altogether, both there, here and everywhere.

In the first place, the Provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the first place is the matter provincial Bank, In the f of the worst type, and one likely to bear

In the first place, the Provincial Bank, as a purely financial and mercantile affair, that should have nothing whatever to do with politics, is an institution yould not mind asserting that it counts nearly as many foreign depositors as native, and that it owes as much to foreign capital as to that of Argentines. If this alone were not sufficient reason that the foreign element should be re-presented on the Board of Directors, an even more potent one may be found in the confidence reposed in foreign financiers, in their experience, capability, and probity. Not only the foreigners, but even many of the Argentines themselves have this feeling, and are well aware on the board of a leading financial or business institution imparts to it a solidity, experience, sobriety and trustworthiness that might otherwise be wanting. It is in the conduct of financial affairs that the River Plate character shows that the River Plate character shows itself weakest, as may be daily witnessed in the gross mismanagement, and even dishonesty, with which State finances are conducted. In thus excluding the foreign element, they wilfully deprive themselves of one of their strongest elements and lower the prestige of the lank.

The present case, like that we quoted the other day, and many similar ones, proves the growing necessity for some check upon the power of the police, unless they are to be allowed to remain masters of the situation, and the public.

tant aid from foreigners. In commercial liberties, persons or pockets of the citand social matters, not only do they owe almost everything to foreigners, but it is useful in both republics. to foreigners, that is to say, to the constant accession of blood, capital and enterprise from the old world, that they have to look for their future progress The foreigners can afford to do without them, but they cannot afford to do without the foreigners. Hence the passing of such an exclusive clause as the above is an act of black ingratitude.

The River Plate character is still too unstable, too undeveloped and too inexperienced to be able to do without the foreign element. When the the River existence they may be in a position to assume absolute independence of foreign aid and knowledge, but at present, in excluding the foreign element they are only

* DON QUIJOTE > AND THE POLICE.

Once more we intend drawing an example from police affairs in the neighbouring Republic.

Sr. Don Eduardo Sojo, the well-known that exercised any time during the century by the caricaturists of England, he U. States or other countries where liberty of opinion is respected. But on tary guard. the River Plate this freedom was not yet to be tolerated and consequently Sr. the object of most illegal and despotie tory, but the latest is one of interest at the present moment. About a fortnight ago the police asserted that a certain Sr. Company or Capmany had complained to them that he had received a letter from Sr. Sojo, threatening his life. On this pretence a police guard was placed permanently at the door of Sr. Solo's private residence, to arrest him if he should vendence, to arrest him if he should ven-ture to come out. The consequence was band, and the Batalion of the 3rd. Infan-Sr. Solo found himself a close prisoner try. The decease I was buried accident his own house, a decidedly novel to the rites of the Catholic church.

Federal Judge, Dr. Tedin, a man remarkable for his fearless uprightness. He decided at once that the action of the police was entirely illegal, that Sr. Solo decided at once that the action of the police was entirely lilegal, that Sr. Sojo had not been guilty of any offence which justified the police in arresting him without a judicial order, and that their blockade was illegal and unprecedented, for if they had a right to arrest Sr. Sojo they ought to have applied to the Judge for leave to enter the house. In short, the lurge ordered them to raise the would not seize the opportunity for the Judge ordered them to raise the would not seize the opportunity for blockade. This, we since learn, the Catholic propagandism. The fairest Chief of Police has refused to to, on the way, seing the Republic pretends to re-

According to our custom, we have quoted this case for the object of drawing from it a moral not inapplicable, this

The deductions to be drawn, then, are two. First, that the police have no butthe siness to interfere with a man because he siness to interfere with a man because he ceived a copy of a very flattering testis a caricaturist; second, that they still monial to Captain Brown, which we will more certainly have no right to blockade publish to-morrow. in which foreigners doing business and investing money on the River Plate are quite as much interested as natives. We so obvious that it would be unnecessary so obvious that it would be unnecessary to point it out in any country where the actions of the police were regulated by law and restrained within their proper limits. In a republic, where the people are nominally free and independent, it is inconceivably monstrous.

The first deduction is the most important, for it is not only a direct infringement on the commonest liberty of the press, but a standing threat to every person whose ideas do not coincide with even many of the Argentines themselves that the ruling parties, and who ventures to have this feeling, and are well aware that a certain amount of foreign element on the hoard of a leading mancial or month, pen or pencil. Freedom of speech is one of the most precious grants of the Constitutions of both Republics, and must be extended to all utterances not actually slanderous. Take this away and a blow is struck at the very roots of literty. Equally so if it is to be sub-

Hank.

But there is still a wider view to be taken of the question. As we have frequently pointed out on different occasions, River Plate Republics are really no more than conglomerations of foreigners, whose national type yet remains to be evolved from a mass of conflicting factors. Even their political independence was not achieved without importance was not achieved to be allowed to temain the situation and the public.
